

EMERGENCY ACT FOR RELIEF OF CITIES PLANNED

Measure Also To Aid
Schools—Will Launch
Next Week

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—Plans for rushing through the house next week a bill designed to give emergency financial relief to municipalities and school districts were announced today.

The proposed measure, it was stated, will comply, in principle, with Governor Donahey's recommendations for majority home rule in taxation and will be drafted by Representative Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, Republican floor leader in the house. The proposed measure, it is understood, will authorize city councils and boards of education to make the tax levies, not exceeding 3 mills upon petition of a majority of those persons who voted at the last novel election. In the event of approval of special levies certificates of indebtedness, maturing with the June tax collection will be issued.

Agreement in principle on the proposed bill, was reached at a conference between Governor Donahey, Speaker Silver, Representative Taft, and J. A. Neckstroth, the governor's secretary, it was stated.

Before introducing the bill, Representative Taft is expected to submit it to the governor for approval.

That Ohio farmers will wage a "fight to the finish" against plans for extending the hard surface highways system throughout the state if auto owners prevent passage by the state legislature of the gasoline tax bill is indicated in statements made by C. A. Dyer, Columbus, legislative agent for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

"Unless motorists agree to accept their fair share of the cost of the roads, the farmers are going to see that they ride the bumps until they come to their senses," said Dyer. "The method of paying for highway improvements in Ohio is insane. The Ohio auto mobile owner pays less than in any other state."

"Yet, hard surface roads are built for him. They are a curse to Ohio farmers. They have depressed land values and sent thousands into bankruptcy. They have brought city crime to the farmers door, giving him no means with which to protect himself."

GET 1925 AUTO TAGS

Only four more days are left to Xenia motorists during which to purchase 1925 automobile license tags.

The full quota for the city has not yet been disposed of, according to Oliver Belden, deputy registrar, and motorists using their 1924 plates after January 20, will be subject to arrest and fine, it is said.

The Auto Club has the facilities and room space both at the club rooms and the room in the Regal Hotel to give prompt service, but a last minute rush would swamp the workers and seriously impair service.

"Get your 1925 tags at once," is the warning.

CHIEFS OPPOSED TO DONAHEY PROPOSAL

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—Ohio police chiefs are on record today as being opposed to Governor Donahey's proposal that they be removed from protection of the civil service laws. Through the board of governors, the chiefs protested the governor's stand, declaring that vesting the power of dismissal with Mayors would give the police enforcers of cities a political complexion which would be detrimental to the public safety.

U. S. DEFENDED

London, Jan. 16.—The British foreign office took the unusual course today of voluntarily defending the United States against the attacks of English editorial writers, who have been saying the "U. S. stayed out of European affairs until it saw a fair chance to get money from Germany."

The foreign office statement said: "The claims of the United States against Germany were presented long ago and therefore always existed, but no chance to collect them until the Dawes report was accepted."

San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 16.—Still "the life of the party," sixteen year old Dorothy Ellingson, confessed slayer of her mother, continued today to get the same big kick out of life that characterized her jazz path to a prison cell.

Twelve hours of questioning and posing found her ready to continue today when police orders shut off further interviews. Only when her father and brother visited her in her cell—both sternly accusing her—did her sangfroid break.

The she, for a moment, forgot pose and sought to beguile their sympathy. "Don't touch me, you killed my mother," her slim legged, serious-faced brother Earl shouted as she sought to throw herself in his arms.

"My God, go away—don't you know I can't talk to you. Why do you come to me like this," came from her taut lips in bitter tones. They turned and left. Slowly her smile returned and again she was "the life of the party."

The youthful figure in California's most unusual matricide will not hang although her brother expressed the wish that she might. The state law prevents the extreme penalty being imposed on persons aged under 18.

BODY OF MURDERED GIRL FOUND BURIED ON FARM OF LOVER

Death Ends Series of Un- requited Love Affairs— Man Held

Crowborough, England, Jan. 16.—An eerie scene was enacted not far from the home of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous, author, early today when detectives from Scotland Yard dug up the body of Elsie Cameron, pretty young London stenographer who was murdered and her body buried on a farm.

The father and mother of the girl were present when the body was found. The father was silent, but the mother collapsed. Following the unearthing of the remains, young Norman Thorne, a prosperous young farmer, to whom the girl was engaged, was formally charged with her murder.

The twenty-six years of the girl's life had been a succession of love tragedies, police revealed. In every case where she fell in love she was the victim of unrequited love, detectives said. She left London December 5 to visit at the Thorne farm.

"I won't return until I am married," she told her parents.

Allege Food and Treatment Good—Crow and Wife Take Stand

Concluding defense testimony in the ouster proceedings against D. E. Crow, superintendent of the County Infirmary, was to be given immediately after the noon recess Friday when both Crow and his wife were to take the stand at the civil service board hearing at the infirmary.

Attorney H. D. Smith rested the Commissioner's case at 10:15 Thursday morning after six witnesses, principally inmates of the home, had been examined. All had numerous complaints to make over alleged spoiled food and lack of care.

Attorney W. L. Miller began to call a long string of inmates who refuted the testimony of their companions with few exceptions and all were high in the praise of treatment accorded them.

Employees testified for the defense that no spoiled food had passed through their hands nor was consumed by the inmates to their knowledge and relatives of Crow testified that they carried away nothing of value from the home after their numerous visits.

Ten witnesses for the defense had been called when the hearing was adjourned at 11:30 Friday morning. More testimony was to be heard when the State Civil Service Commission reconvened at 12:30 in the afternoon.

Rollin Swisher and William S. Bundy, are members of the board hearing the charges against Crow.

Attorney Miller attempted to give the hearing a political angle in cross-examination when J. A. North County Commissioner took the stand, but all insinuations that personal enmity resulting from the recent primary election was the root of the trouble, was strongly denied by North.

Asked if he did not tell L. Steinfelds, retiring clerk of the commission board that he was "going to get Crow," North replied that he had not, but that Crow had treated him like an ingrate.

North also denied the question if the whole trouble had not arisen when Crow did not vote the inmates at the primary election. North admitted that he "had it in for Crow" and that "Crow had not acted like a man" but said this did not "affect his action as a county commissioner."

Shortly before the prosecution rested its case, the attorneys and commission went to the Home hospital to interview two witnesses, Charles Williams and Kate Herring. Each refuted the testimony of the other. Williams declared the hospital food was the worst he had ever eaten in his life, while Mrs. Herring expressed unbounded gratitude for her treatment by Mr. and Mrs. Crow. She could find no fault with the food served inmates, she said.

The list of witnesses who testified during the Friday morning session included: Charles Williams; Mrs. Kate Herring, Ralph Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. David Lane, Harry Fauber, Mrs. Catherine Hock, Clois Anderson, Mrs. Anna Duncan, Charles Vannorsdall, J. A. North, John B. Smith, William Osborn and Mart Breakall.

Witnesses who testified at Thursday afternoon's hearing included: Mitchell Graham, nurse; Maide Ireland, cook; Mrs. May Hughes, wife of the institution farmer; M. S. Smith, acting superintendent; William Hughes, farmer, who was recalled; an inmate named Baker; Mart Breakall; William Gibeon, inmate; Oda Hebbell, inmate; Enos Hutchison, inmate; Simon Lindamood, inmate; an inmate named Little; Ora Million, hospital inmate; Miss Ella Hildreth, housekeeper; Dr. Paul D. Espey, institution physician; James Nunn, inmate; William L. Osborn, inmate; Washington Battles, inmate; George J. Pressinger, inmate; James Thorpe, inmate; John Price, inmate; County Commissioner H. W. Eavey; Mrs. Lena Webb, of Dayton, daughter of Mrs. Crow, and former cook at the institution; Lansing Crow of Pittsburgh, Pa., son of Mr. Crow; Charles Crow, Cleveland, son of Mr. Crow.

Inmates testified mostly as to the grade of food served, declaring meat and vegetables used for food were spoiled and soured. Hutchison said inmates were served "squirrel milk," which, questioning developed, was skimmed milk. Breakall told the investigators the superintendent had slapped him and Battles told a similar story. Sons of Mr. Crow said they had visited at the institution and were given only a box of luncheon on leaving. Mrs. Webb said she had been given three dozen ears of corn on one occasion.

County Commissioner Eavey admitted on the stand that he had not heard complaints against Crow until after the primary election. He said that when Crow asked him what charges commissioners had against him at the time they reduced his pay, he replied that the commissioners did not want Crow at the institution.

Automobile Struck by Fast Freight In New York State —Alliance Man Killed When Auto Hits Tree.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 16.—Three persons returning from a dance at Williamson, were killed today when an eastbound New York Central freight train struck their automobile at the Penfield Road crossing a few miles from here.

The dead:

Mrs. Lillian DeRuyscher, 40.
Thomas Oster, 48.
Oscar J. Kalbfleisch, 30.

All were of this city.

Miss Bertha McDowell, who was riding on the rear seat, escaped unhurt.

A westbound train had just passed the crossing when the eastbound train crashed into the car. The automobile was tossed against a telephone pole and took fire with Mrs. DeRuyscher in the wreckage.

Canton, O., Jan. 16.—I. Moore, 21, Alliance, was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon when the auto he was driving, crashed into a tree. Moore's neck was broken and his skull fractured. He died on his way to the Alliance City Hospital, Pearl Morony, 20, who was riding with him, is in the hospital. His right leg is broken in three places.

Coroner McQuainte said that Moore and three others broke into a wine cellar and were intoxicated. The two boys not in the accident, McQuainte says, were so "soused" they could not accompany Moore and Morony on their ride.

ELLINGSON MATRICIDE CASE IS FAULT OF SOCIETY NEW YORK WELFARE WORKER SAYS

New York, Jan. 16.—"The Dorothy Ellingson case is the worst I ever heard of—more shocking by far than any of the 30,000 I have handled."

That was the comment today of Miss Stella A. Miner, director of the Girl's Security League of America, and nationally known welfare worker, on the confession of Dorothy Ellingson, 16, of San Francisco, that she killed her mother to clear the way for her dance down the trail of jazz.

Miss Miner, who has come into contact with girls from every walk of life during seventeen years experience in welfare work, characterized the shooting as the act of a feeble minded, diseased moron.

"I have studied girls who were thieves, moral degenerates and criminals of the lowest type," she said, "but this case is beyond my comprehension."

"The girl evidently was carried away by her primitive instincts—her desires were those of a girl of sixteen, but her mind was that of a six year old. Probably she would have shot her mother when prevented from carrying out any intense desire."

Miss Miner said she saw no similarity between the tragedy and the Loeb-Leopold case.

"Loeb and Leopold were overdeveloped mentally, while this girl's mentality was under developed," she said. Asked if she believed the jazz craze was entirely responsible for the crime, Miss Miner said:

"No—society is to blame. If society did its full share in welfare work, it would get hold of these girls before they get into trouble. We should find out and take care of their difficulties before it is too late."

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Girls don't become wicked all at once. Dorothy Ellingson must have been in trouble before. At the first sign that she is delinquent or feeble minded, a girl should be placed where she cannot get into more serious difficulties."

"Psychological examinations should be given in all grades at school for pupils whose mentality is low. This is now being done in several grammar schools and high schools in New York state."

"The child who is unmistakably a moron or a degenerate, should be placed in a colony for the feeble minded and kept there for life. We have done this with quite a few boys and girls in New York state but unfortunately the parents invariably want to have their children home for Christmas or for some such reason and will make every effort to get them out of the institution."

BLAST AND FIRE WRECK VARNISH COMPANY PLANT

Lives of Firemen Are Imperiled In Fighting
$100,000 Blaze

Chicago, Jan. 16.—A terrific explosion, which killed at least two persons and injured more than 50, wrecked a two story ware house of the L. Lewis Varnish Company here today and started a fire which threatened to engulf the whole plant of four buildings.

Two bodies were recovered a short time after the blast by firemen who fought their way through the flames as possible further explosions of oil and turpentine imperiled their lives. They were unable to say whether or not more victims were beyond their reach behind the curtain of fire.

Panic followed the blast as hundreds of employes, many of whom had just reported for work, battled each other for exits.

The warehouse contained large tanks of oil, turpentine, gasoline and alcohol. Several explosions followed the initial blast and the entire street in front of the burning building was turned into a river of flame.

The first explosion was caused by the detonation of a large gas tank which was being either loaded or unloaded from a truck. It blew out the entire front of the building. The driver of a truck, Harry Watson, is dead. His heavy truck was hurled across the street into a vacant lot.

A watchman, Frank Cora, is the other victim found.

Hundreds of windows in other buildings and homes in the neighborhood were broken and sleepers were hurled from their beds.

The damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

EAGLES HAVE PROUD RECORD ORGANIZER TELLS CROWD HERE

The benefits and selling points of the order from a membership of 450,000 to one of nearly 600,000 within a short time. He spoke of the appeal of the order to working men in all branches of business life.

There are 1,700 Eagles Lodges or Aeries, scattered over the United States. The speaker named the benefits to be derived from membership in the order, and cited the war record of the lodge in the World War.

A concert by the Holton orchestra preceded the address. A good sized crowd of lodge members and their guests attended the meeting.

"Men who never had any inclination to join a lodge are finding reasons to join the F. O. E.," the speaker said. "This wide appeal of the order has brought it about in some of the larger cities that whole communities have endorsed the order. Editors have commented on its work and the clergy has spoken for us."

"The lodges are known among the members as Aeries, a term meaning Eagles' nest. The first Aerie was instituted in Seattle, Wash., in the winter of 1898. Since its organization twenty-seven years ago, there has been paid out in sick benefits to our members, $27,155,538, for funeral benefits $5,281,933, and for medical services, $8,619,727, a total of $41,046,259."

"Our campaign to secure justice for aged workers was begun three years ago when the Grand Aerie of the F. O. E. appointed a National Old Age Pension Commission and appropriated a permanent fund. Three states now have old age pension laws and the growth of the movement has fired the Eagles with new zeal."

"This is a patriotic order pledged to serve the community and the nation as well as itself. The Eagle and the Flag, are our symbols."

CARELESSNESS

John E. Daly, who addressed members of the Kiwanis Club on the subject of "Safety," alluded to the carelessness which costs human life, as a "demon."

Now then, there are fables that tell of ancient demons and the brave youth, who, dressed in armor, and equipped with a sword, went forth boldly and slew these demons that terrorized the human race. Thus they were eradicated.

Carelessness, though no less a demon, demands different though just as strenuous, methods. We are living through an era when human life is held too cheaply. Life, being the dwelling of the soul within the body, is a sacred thing and its preservation a holy and righteous practice.

The man who goes forth to slay the demon "Carelessness," should arm himself with these things: "Care and consideration for his own life and for the lives of others."

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

American citizenship means this: the opportunity to share in the most splendid adventure upon which any large segment of mankind has ever set forth—upon a continent rich in beauty and abundant in resources, to take unto itself men of every land and every creed, every race and every social stratum and with them and of them to build a nation and to create a people drawn onward by the dream of a government in which all shall share and under which all shall benefit according to their gifts, their wisdom and their courage; a nation, strong, just and chivalrous; a people, clean, generous, alert, granting to each the privilege of making his own life, or marring it, of bearing high responsibilities and therefore of growing, of developing within himself for the benefit of mankind that which differentiates him from all other creatures and which is, therefore, his holiest possession, his individuality; a people, hating shams, loving beauty and true mirth, knowing God and counting fellowship as the cornerstone of its national life. To have a part, to have even the smallest part, in such an adventure is to hold a birthright such as no prince has ever possessed and no child of man shall outdream except at the gates of heaven.—Hermann Hagedorn in the Kansas City Times.

DID YOU WONDER?

Thousands of people have wondered why slumber in a Pullman is required by the rules to be taken head-forward. The same or other thousands cling to a quite natural supposition that feet-forward is the more normal style. Dr. Thomas R. Crowder, of the Pullman's department of sanitation and surgery steps to the front and dissipates a very general public mystification on the subject. It has been commonly supposed that some law of the heart action dictated the head-forward practice. On the other hand, many have been frightened at the likelihood of head contusions and broken necks in case of collisions while riding in that position. But Dr. Crowder says the heart has nothing to do with the case and that there is no rule about it. Anybody who wants to ride feet-forward can do so. The head is put forward for the simple reason that the draft and dust and cinders blow to the rear of a moving train, and the head is placed forward to avoid these things.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WHERE SONGS COME FROM

Where do the songs come from, and how
Do the singers weave them for you and me?
Some of them spring from the apple
bough
And some from the Land of the
Used to be,
And some of the lullabies, soft and
sweet
Come from the patter of little feet.
And tuning his ear for a melody,
The singer catches a faint low
strain
From a passing breeze or the summer
sea
Or a mother's smile or a sigh of pain,
Or the joy of a child as he romps
along,
And thus is fashioned another song
Our songs have come from a falling
tear
From a rose still bright with the
morning dew,
From the battlefield and its days of
fear,
From the long lost joys and the pleasures new,
From the cheerful health of the brave
and strong
From a mother's smile and the kettle's song.
For the singer sees what we cannot see
And the singer hears what we cannot hear,
The low sweet strains of some melody
Fall on his spirit, distinct and clear,
And out of some trifling, passing thing
He catches a song for the world to sing.

The new oil field, which is being opened near Winchester, Ind., and in which quite a number of Xenia business men are interested, from present indications seems to give promise of being a paying proposition. One of the best attractions of the winter at the Opera House was that of Monday night when the dramatized version of Irving Bacheller's famous novel, "Eben Holden," was presented. Mr. P. H. Flynn, of the shoe factory, who has been in New York the past week on business, returned home today. A FRIEND A YEAR

Any man would die very rich if he but secured one sterling friend a year. For after all friends count most when the lengthening shadows approach. Just to have a hand py around around menas the world. I once read the story of a man who died without a single friend to mourn his passing. But he did have a faithful dog who mourned over the lifted mound of earth and finally died of a broken heart, faithful to the end.
A man who has since become famous, once told me that his New Year was exceptionally happy because he had found in me a new friend. That made me more happy than words and I have tried to merit that great honor.
If you do nothing greater this year than add one fine and understanding friend to your friendship list your year will not have been in vain. If nations made friends of each other there would be no wars. Wars are always the result of misunderstanding.
There are always times when we must have someone to whom we can go to talk, to open our hearts to, to laugh or cry with.
Friendship is the noblest occupation in the world.
I believe they play a soft stringed orchestra in Heaven every time a beautiful friendship is made here upon earth. A man without friends—what is he? A man without life in his soul.

You can't be exacting with a real friend. You have to let that friend run his freedom in his own way. But you must delight in that freedom.

We have to defend everything good and fine that we keep. It's so with a friend. If a friend is worth keeping, defend him under all circumstances and be glad of the chance.

It has been said before but it is worth repeating: If you want a friend you must first be a friend.

CHURCH GOERS WORK CROSS WORD PUZZLE

A part of the evening service at the First Presbyterian Church, Sunday, will be taken up by the members solving the crossword puzzle distributed to the congregation last Sunday by the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Tilford. The spaces in the puzzles are to be filled with words from Biblical quotations and members of the church have been busy the past week looking through their Bible chapters in search of the correct answers.

C. L. DARLINGTON NOMINATED FOR BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF NATIONAL MILITARY HOMES

Captain Charles L. Darlington, Xenia, Republican former state commander of the American Legion, was nominated Thursday in the house of representatives as successor to George H. Wood, Democrat of Dayton, when the latter retires February 25 as member of the board of managers of the National Soldiers' Home Dayton. Wood is the present head of the board.

Mr. Darlington received the nomination in a joint resolution introduced by Representative William R. Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee, according to Washington advices.

The resolution is considered the first move made in the new house to succeed General Wood on the managerial board with a Republican partisan.

Both United States Senators S. D. Fess, Yellow Springs, and Frank B. Willis, endorsed Captain Darlington's proposed appointment, Senator Fess speaking highly in his praise.

Approval of Representative Wood's nomination must be made by congress before the appointments are made.

Excerpts from a statement made in Washington Thursday night by Wood when he was asked to give reasons for seeking a change in the personnel of the board, follow: "I think it is only fair and right that the honors should be divided among the soldiers who saved the Union. They are dying rapidly, but there are a number of Civil War veterans who would appreciate the honor of serving on the board. If their time is ever to come it must come soon."

"My resolution implies no reflections on the present members of the board of managers. It recognizes the right of others to have the same experience and seeks to open the way for the realization of their ambitions."

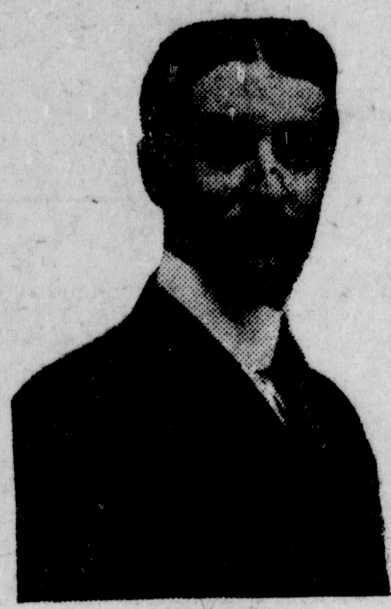

Quoted in a statement made recently, Captain Darlington declared that he would not consider becoming a candidate for membership on the board but would feel called upon to accept if the position was tendered him, with the feeling that the expenditure of money that it would entail would be offset by the opportunity to perform an important public service.

The board of managers controls ten branches of the National Home for Disabled Soldiers, with the central branch located in Dayton where the headquarters of the board is maintained.

The board is held responsible to no authority other than the president of the United States who, together with the chief justice and secretary of war, is made a member of the board.

Captain Charles L. Darlington was born in Xenia May 28, 1877, and entered the University School of Cleveland at the age of fourteen. After four years at this school he entered Yale College and graduated in 1899 after a four-year course.

He completed his law studies in the Cincinnati Law School after four years, was admitted to the bar there and opened a law office in the Union Trust Building in Cincinnati. Upon the death of his father in 1903 Mr. Darlington returned to his old home in Xenia and engaged in law practice with offices in the Steele Building until he enlisted in the World War in the spring of 1917.

C. L. DARLINGTON

He was commissioned a captain and served with the army until the armistice was signed and was later discharged. He was former state commander of the American Legion and is now a practicing attorney.

During the time of his residence in Cincinnati, Captain Darlington married Miss Louise Swing, daughter of Judge Peter Swing that city.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture

I have met many people who have found how to get along best on two meals a day, and I have met not a few who find one meal a day meets their requirements. The good rule to follow in this regard is to eat only when you are hungry. One of the greatest errors in this regard is to feel that one must eat by the clock—at certain hours. When one is not hungry enough to really enjoy his meal he cannot, as a matter of fact, completely digest that meal for the reason that desire or appetite has an effect on the secretions of gastric and other digestive juices. There is considerable science in the idea that the desires and emotions increase or decrease the flow, and quality of the digestive juices. One should never eat when angry, worried or grieved. By the same token it must be evident also that cheerfulness and laughter at the table aid digestion and that a dyspeptic should not only study to acquire for himself a healthful mental attitude, but should seek the companionship of cheerful persons while eating.

To drink a cupful of hot water in the morning on arising aids considerably in cleansing the stomach and bowels of effete matter that has accumulated over night.

The use of drugs, cathartics, pepsin from a pig's stomach, or rennet from a calf's stomach, producing an unnatural vitality is in itself a frequent cause of stomach and bowel trouble and their continued use is often responsible for an acute condition becoming chronic. The fact is certainly significant that dyspeptics who will keep on trying this and that patent medicine or other artificial stimulant become confirmed dyspeptics. Their condition usually grows worse instead of better, and the result is a complete breakdown.

The best treatment for stomach and bowel trouble is, after all, any course that will build up one's vitality and general health in a natural way. As such a regimen improves the circulation, the organs of secretion and digestion must perform their functions more naturally, and the blood itself must carry nutrition to every part of the body.

To produce an evacuation of the bowels an injection of warm water is recommended, the warm water injection to be followed by cold water.

LEONARD RETIRES BECAUSE OF LOVE OF MOTHER HE SAYS

New York, Jan. 15.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, has quit the ring, he announced today, "Because his mother had begged him not to fight again."

"I am retiring from boxing for the love of my mother," Leonard said. Leonard became lightweight champion in 1917 when he beat Freddie Welch. He has been one of the most popular champions of all time.

Leonard is now appearing in vaudeville. Recently he became seriously ill, after collapsing on the stage, but recovered after remaining in bed at his home here for a week or ten days.

In announcing his retirement, Leonard said there was a time when he liked "the glory stuff"—when the people used to say—"there goes Benny Leonard, the champion."

"But," he went on, "I am not retiring for glory. I am retiring for the love of my mother who begged me not to fight again."

"I fought everybody the public demanded me to start. I beat them all in my class. Nobody can say Benny Leonard didn't give all the boys a chance at the title."

Leonard then related how his mother used to read of his fights, of his training, of stories that he had his teeth knocked out, his hands broken or had met with other injuries.

"Mother would sit crying and trembling, saying: 'My poor Benny,'"

"My fight with Tender in 1923 was to have been my last. My mother had been very ill. All of us were greatly worried over her condition. One day she called the family together. She made me promise I would never fight again. Then she said she would have nothing to worry about."

"So that's why I'm quitting now—for mother's sake."

OLD TIMER IS BACK

"My friends had all given up and never expected to see me around again. I had given up hoping myself, as no medicine touched my case. The doctors had tried everything. My food did not digest and filled me with gas. My brother in Philadelphia wrote me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. The first dose gave me wonderful relief and I am now as well as I ever was and feel thirty years younger." It is a harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sayre & Hemphill and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

CARE OF BRUSHES

To clean brushes use benzine, gasoline or turpentine. Varnish and enamel brushes should be cleaned in turpentine, and shellac brushes in denatured alcohol. After the brushes have been well cleaned they should be washed in soft water and flaxseed and dried with a cloth.

A dye always should be stained through muslin before it is added to water.

FARM BUREAU RE-ELECTS OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEETING; OPPOSE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT; HEARS TALKS

Officers of the Greene County Farm Bureau were re-elected at the closing session of the annual meeting held in the assembly room of the Court House, Tuesday. They are: W. B. Bryson, president; George W. Glass, vice-president; W. W. Anderson, secretary; Herman Eavey, treasurer, who co-operate with committees and other officers appointed.

M. D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, scheduled to address the afternoon session, was forced to cancel his engagement at a late hour.

In his stead, E. C. Rector, Pickaway County, member of the executive board of the Ohio Federation and former state representative spoke.

Three primary objects to be used as a guide in work of Farm Bureaus, according to Mr. Rector, are: the upbuilding of the home and community life; lowering of the cost of producing farm products and lessening the cost of distribution of farm produce.

These problems confront all farmer organizations, the speaker said. "The Farm Bureau is past the experimental stage, and it is up to every organization to show results by this time and not gain membership on promises," the speaker declared.

Mr. Rector praised co-operative marketing organizations and told of various farmer co-operative organizations which had been formed in his home county, and which are along a similar line to that found in Greene County. Benefits enjoyed by the members of the organization were named by the speaker.

"I agree with President Coolidge in his statement that no one can solve the difficulties of farmers except the farmers themselves," Mr. Rector said.

Miss Adele Koch, home economics department, Ohio State University, gave the first address of the afternoon session, on "Home Agent Work." Her subject was of interest to the audience, since the home demonstration work has met with success in this county, as advanced by the local farm bureau.

Miss Ella Haas, welfare worker of Montgomery County gave a talk on "Rural Welfare Needs." She closed her talk with a plea to the farmers to not be "hoodwinked" by the manufacturers and others interested in defeating the Child Labor Amendment. She declared the action of the farm bodies in opposing the proposed amendment. The Greene County Farm Bureau has gone on record as opposing the Child Labor Amendment and a resolution presented at the meeting Thursday verified this statement.

The assembly hall was crowded for the afternoon session. The program included selections by a male quartette which appeared on the morning program and which was well received by the audience.

The reports of committees and a general discussion followed the regular program in the afternoon. The discussion centered on the resolutions presented at the meeting, including: opposing the Child Labor Amendment, favoring re-appraisal of property in Greene County and favoring a gasoline tax on all motor vehicles. All were passed. The session closed with a prayer.

Police Discover Germ Poison Conspiracy

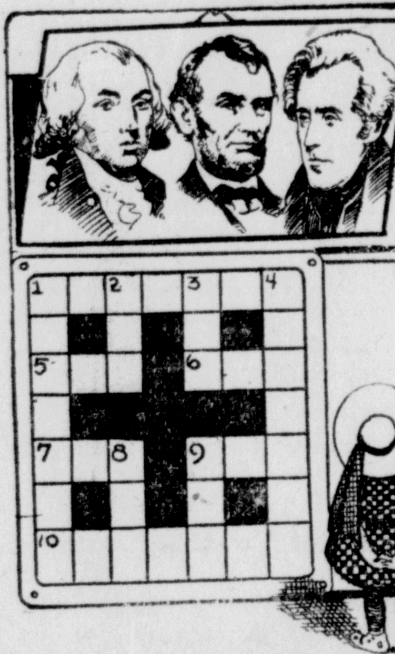

E. E. HODGSON

While investigating the attempted murder of prominent citizens of Redondo Beach, Cal., police unearthed an alleged plot by which a supposed fanatic, who signed notes to victims only as "The Alchemist," caused men to go blind and inoculated children of parents on his "revenge list" with white plague germs. E. E. Hodgson, Redondo Beach grocer, was stricken with blindness after a dispute with a man suspected in the case.

YESTERDAY'S JUNIOR PUZZLE ANSWER

Your Income Tax

There is no change in the exemption for single persons, which is $1,000. Married persons living together and heads of families are allowed by the revenue act of 1924 an exemption of $2,500, regardless of the amount of net income. Under the preceding act the exemption for married persons and heads of families was $2,500 if the aggregate net income was $5,000 or less and $2,000 if the net income exceeded $5,000. A husband and wife living together have but one personal exemption. If they make separate returns such exemption may be taken by either or divided between them.

The exemption of $2,500 is allowed married couples only if they live together. In the absence of continuous actual residence together, the exemption depends upon the character of the separation. The new regulations provide that if occasionally and temporarily a wife is away on a visit or a husband is away on business, the joint home being maintained, the full exemption is allowable. The unavoidable absence of a husband or wife at a sanitarium on account of illness does not preclude claiming the exemption. But if continuously and voluntarily the husband makes his residence at one place and the wife at another, they are not living together within the eyes of the income-tax law. Each must file a return if his or her income was $1,000 or more, and each is allowed only the $1,000 exemption granted a single person.

No change is made in the provision allowing the taxpayer, in addition to

OHIO LEADING IN CROPS UNDER GLASS

Ohio leads the United States in the value of vegetables grown under glass, according to a study completed by horticulturists at the Ohio State University.

Operating close to 443 acres under glass, hothouse men in Ohio are producing crop with a market value of more than seven million dollars a year, says one of the horticulturists, N. W. Glines.

"Illinois is Ohio's nearest rival in this industry," the specialist points out, "growing 450 acres under glass; but only 15.5 percent of the total receipts are from vegetables. In Ohio, 37 percent of the total receipts of seven million dollars or three million dollars, comes from vegetables alone. The remaining 63 percent or about four and a half million dollars, constitutes the return from flowers."

"Since the total population of Ohio's four largest cities is less than half that of Chicago," Mr. Glines explains, "it would be natural to conclude that Illinois should be in the lead. But it doesn't happen that way."

"The many smaller cities in Ohio make ideal markets for hothouse vegetables. These cities are so evenly distributed through the state that a concentration of the industry is not necessary."

PIGS WILL BE FEW PREDICTIONS SAY

Bearing out estimates recently announced by economists at the Ohio State University, the United States Department of Agriculture now predicts that hog producers the country over will have from 15 to 25 per cent fewer sows farrowing this spring than in the spring of 1924.

This prediction is based on the future plans of farmers as given to representatives of the United States Postoffice in every county in the country.

"It is the hope that publication of such figures," one of the Ohio extension economists, R. F. Taber, explains, "will bring about readjustment of producers' plans and thus tend to even out the wide fluctuations in the supply. Wide fluctuations, of course, mean heavy losses to the farmer."

"The 15 to 25 per cent reduction in the number of sows to farrow this Spring," Mr. Taber continues, "is in addition to the reduction of 24 per cent below the 1920 figures in the number of pigs raised last fall."

"Apparently high corn prices caused by the 20 per cent reduction below the average of the past five years—are having the usual effect. Farmers who do not have corn are selling their hogs, and those who do have corn are finding it more profitable to sell the corn as corn, rather than as pork and lard."

APPLICATION OF PAINT
To obtain the best results paint should always be stirred to an even and creamy consistency before and during application. Plenty of energy should be used to brush the paint or enameled into the wood and to spread the substance into this, uniform coats.

MODISH MITZI—Mitzi Plays Fair With The Budget

By Jay V. Jay

Dad didn't really think that Mitzi could keep to her budget. And Mitzi wasn't so sure herself till she shopped around to see. There isn't one reason in the world why it can't be done. And even Fathers have to be shown once in a while.

Or she could have this gown. It is of quite an unusual style having two crossbands in front embroidered with silver thread. The bodice is long and is held in at the hips with a tight band. The sleeves are melon shaped and trimmed with steel buttons.

If one prefers a fancier dress for afternoon there is this beltless crepe of fine pleats. Two ruffles of flowered silk come below the knee. It is a gown that will always see the gayer side of life.

COMMISSIONERS IN RESTAURANT TRADE COATS DESPITE SIZE

J. Harve Lackey, Ross Township farmer and cattle breeder, and new Greene County Commissioner, is large and brawny.

Bert Beam, Spring Valley Township farmer, and also a new County Commissioner, is small and Napoleonesque, if such a word may be coined.

Wednesday the new commissioners ate lunch together at a local restaurant. Arising after the meal each put on the other's overcoat. Now then the overcoat of Mr. Beam proved a bit skimpy on the ample form of Mr. Lackey, while Mr. Lackey's coat fit Mr. Beam like a tent.

Yet so intent were the new office holders on their thought, that both proceeded from restaurant without either noticing the exchange of habiliment. Eventually however, Mr. Lackey began to find his usual free movement rather confined in the too-small coat, while Mr. Beam, lagged behind as he perspired under the unusually heavy load of the too-large coat.

"I have on somebody else's coat", Mr. Beam finally announced, chagrined at the discovery. "So have I", said Mr. Lackey.

So they exchanged coats.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Husband Tamer by VIOLET DARE

AUTHOR OF "The Half-Time Wife," "The Luxury of Love" etc.

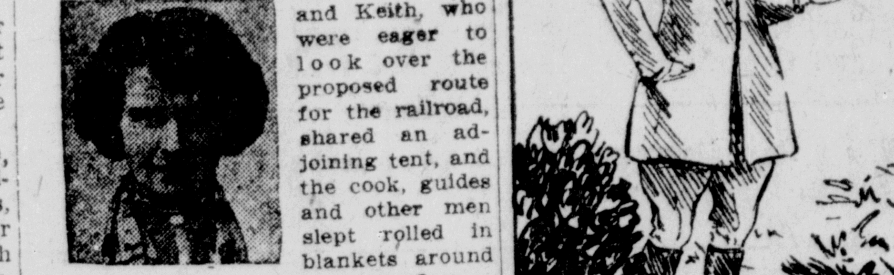

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

PATRICIA CLEVE protests to her husband, ANDREW CLEVE, a young lawyer, that he has made her a tamer of other women's husbands, forcing her to do so much entertaining of his clients that he sacrifices her to his business. She goes on a visit to her sister, CAROL WILLOUGHBY, who, with her husband, KEITH WILLOUGHBY, lives in a country club colony near Chicago. But Keith, like Andrew, seeks to use Patricia's charm as an asset, trying to persuade her to intercede in his behalf with GREGORY HEWITT, a famous financier, whom she has met through Andrew. Patricia is disturbed by Keith's attentions to ISOBEL DRAKE, the country club widow. Finding that she can come between them by yielding to Keith's urging that she invite Hewitt to dinner, she does so, reluctantly, as Hewitt has vowed his love for her. She plans to return home, but receives word from Andrew that he is going abroad at once. To please Patricia, Hewitt promises to build the railroad Keith is interested in, and arranges a western trip for the Willoughbys, Patricia and himself.

TODAY'S INSTALMENT

XXXVI—HEWITT LOOKS AHEAD

"PATRICIA, are you going to marry Gregory Hewitt?" demanded Carol of her sister. They were sitting in the tent which they shared; Hewitt and Keith, who were eager to look over the proposed route for the railroad, shared an adjoining tent, and the cook, guides and other men slept rolled in blankets around the campfires.

VIOLET DARE "You seem to forget that he's already married," Patricia reminded her.

"No, but you seem to," Carol answered. Then, as her sister turned on her angrily, "Oh, don't be hurt, Patricia, you haven't done anything the least bit wrong. But anyone could see how he cares for you. That's been evident from the very first. And a man with as much influence as Gregory Hewitt has can do just about whatever he wants to these days. Of course I don't know how you feel about Andrew."

Patricia rose abruptly and left the tent. She didn't know herself, these days, just how she felt about Andrew.

She was an attractive little figure in her riding breeches, soft shirt, and high boots of tan leather that matched the breeches. She had had her hair bobbed before leaving Chicago, and it lay close to her head, making her look very boyish.

Hewitt was standing beside a table in the door of his tent, looking through some papers. His eyes followed her as she walked along, hands thrust into her pockets, staring at the ground.

But he made no effort to follow her. Instead, he took out a letter that had been given him a few moments before, and reread it. It was on the heavily monogrammed stationery that his wife affected.

"Of course I can see through this divorce plan," she had written. "You want to be free so that you can marry that Cleve woman. You say that you have always known that I did not care for you; that I married you merely to get away from home."

"But no matter why I married you, you are my husband, and you can't get away from that fact. I see no reason why I should divorce you so that you can marry this younger woman with whom you are temporarily infatuated."

Schools—Will Launch
Next Week

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—Plans for rushing through the house next week a bill designed to give emergency financial relief to municipalities and school districts were announced today.

The proposed measure, it was stated, will comply, in principle, with Governor Donahey's recommendations for majority home rule in taxation and will be drafted by Representative Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati, Republican floor leader in the house. The proposed measure, it is understood, will authorize city councils and boards of education to make the tax levies, not exceeding 3 mills upon petition of a majority of those persons who voted at the last novel election. In the event of approval of special levies certificates of indebtedness, maturing with the June tax collection will be issued.

Agreement in principle on the proposed bill, was reached at a conference between Governor Donahey, Speaker Silver, Representative Taft, and J. A. Neckstroth, the governor's secretary, it was stated.

Before introducing the bill, Representative Taft is expected to submit it to the governor for approval.

That Ohio farmers will wage a "fight to the finish" against plans for extending the hard surface highways system throughout the state if auto owners prevent passage by the state legislature of the gasoline tax bill is indicated in statements made by C. A. Dyer, Columbus, legislative agent for the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

"Unless motorists agree to accept their fair share of the cost of the roads, the farmers are going to see that they ride the bumps until they come to their senses," said Dyer. "The method of paying for highway improvements in Ohio is insane. The Ohio auto mobile owner pays less than in any other state."

"Yet, hard surface roads are built for him. They are a curse to Ohio farmers. They have depressed land values and sent thousands into bankruptcy. They have brought city crime to the farmers door, giving him no means with which to protect himself."

GET 1925 AUTO TAGS

Only four more days are left to Xenia motorists during which to purchase 1925 automobile license tags.

The full quota for the city has not yet been disposed of, according to Dillver Belden, deputy registrar, and motorists using their 1924 plates after January 20, will be subject to arrest and fine, it is said.

The Auto Club has the facilities and room space both at the club rooms and the room in the Regal Hotel to give prompt service, but a last minute rush would swamp the workers and seriously impair service.

"Get your 1925 tags at once," is the warning.

CHIEFS OPPOSED TO DONAHEY PROPOSAL

Columbus, O., Jan. 16.—Ohio police chiefs are on record today as being opposed to Governor Donahey's proposal that they be removed from protection of the civil service laws. Through the board of governors, the chiefs protested the governor's stand, declaring that vesting the power of dismissal with Mayors would give the police enforcers of cities a political complexion which would be detrimental to the public safety.

U. S. DEFENDED

London, Jan. 16.—The British foreign office took the unusual course today of voluntarily defending the United States against the attacks of English editorial writers, who have been saying the "U. S. stayed out of European affairs until it saw a fair chance to get money from Germany."

The foreign office statement said: "The claims of the United States against Germany were presented long ago and therefore always existed, but no chance to collect them until the Dawes report was accepted."

San Francisco, Calif., Jan. 16.—Still "the life of the party," sixteen year old Dorothy Ellingson, confessed slayer of her mother, continued today to get the same big kick out of life that characterized her jazz path to a prison cell.

Twelve hours of questioning and posing found her ready to continue today when police orders shut off further interviews. Only when her father and brother visited her in her cell—both sternly accusing her—did her sangfroid break.

The she, for a moment, forgot pose and sought to beguile their sympathy. "Don't touch me, you killed my mother," her slim, legged, serious-faced brother Earl shouted as she sought to throw herself in his arms. "My God, go away—don't you know I can't talk to you. Why do you come to me like this," came from her taut lips in bitter tones. They turned and left. Slowly her smile returned and again she was "the life of the party."

The youthful figure in California's most unusual matricide will not hang although her brother expressed the wish that she might. The state law prevents the extreme penalty being imposed on persons aged under 18.

BODY OF MURDERED GIRL FOUND BURIED ON FARM OF LOVER

Death Ends Series of Un- requited Love Affairs— Man Held

Crowborough, England, Jan. 16.—An eerie scene was enacted not far from the home of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous author, early today when detectives from Scotland Yard dug up the body of Elsie Cameron, pretty young London stenographer who was murdered and her body buried on a farm.

The father and mother of the girl were present when the body was found. The father was silent, but the mother collapsed. Following the unearthing of the remains, young Norman Thorne, a prosperous young farmer, to whom the girl was engaged, was formally charged with her murder.

The twenty-six years of the girl's life had been a succession of love tragedies, police revealed. In every case where she fell in love she was the victim of unrequited love, detectives said. She left London December 5 to visit at the Thorne farm.

"I won't return until I am married," she told her parents.

Allege Food and Treatment Good—Crow and Wife Take Stand

Concluding defense testimony in the ouster proceedings against D. E. Crow, superintendent of the County Infirmary, was to be given immediately after the noon recess Friday when both Crow and his wife were to take the stand at the civil service board hearing at the Infirmary.

Attorney H. D. Smith rested the Commissioner's case at 10:15 Thursday morning after six witnesses, principally inmates of the home, had been examined. All had numerous complaints to make over alleged spoiled food and lack of care.

Attorney W. L. Miller began to call a long string of inmates who refuted the testimony of their companions with few exceptions and all were high in the praise of treatment accorded them.

Employees testified for the defense that no spoiled food had passed through their hands nor was consumed by the inmates to their knowledge and relatives of Crow testified that they carried away nothing of value from the home after their numerous visits.

Ten witnesses for the defense had been called when the hearing was adjourned at 11:30 Friday morning. More testimony was to be heard when the State Civil Service Commission reconvened at 12:30 in the afternoon. Rollin Swisher and William S. Bundy, are members of the board hearing the charges against Crow.

Attorney Miller attempted to give the hearing a political angle in cross-examination when J. A. North County Commissioner took the stand, but all insinuations that personal enmity resulting from the recent primary election was the root of the trouble, was strongly denied by North.

Asked if he did not tell L. Steinfeld, retiring clerk of the commission board that he was "going to get Crow," North replied that he had not, but that Crow had treated him like an inmate.

North also denied the question if the whole trouble had not arisen when Crow did not vote the inmates at the primary election. North admitted that he "had it in for Crow" and that "Crow had not acted like a man" but said this did not "affect his action as a county commissioner."

Shortly before the prosecution rested its case, the attorneys and commission went to the Home hospital to interview two witnesses, Charles Williams and Kate Herring. Each refuted the testimony of the other. Williams declared the hospital food was the worst he had ever eaten in his life, while Mrs. Herring expressed unbounded gratitude for her treatment by Mr. and Mrs. Crow. She could find no fault with the food served inmates, she said.

The list of witnesses who testified during the Friday morning session included: Charles Williams; Mrs. Kate Herring; Ralph Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ryan, Mr. and Mrs. David Lane, Harry Fauber, Mrs. Catherine Hock, Clois Anderson, Mrs. Anna Duncan, Charles Vannorsdall, J. A. North, John B. Smith, William Osborn and Mart Breakall.

Witnesses who testified at Thursday afternoon's hearing included: Mitchell Graham, nurse; Malde Ireland, cook; Mrs. May Hughes, wife of the institution farmer; M. S. Smith, acting superintendent; William Hughes, farmer, who was recalled; an inmate named Baker; Mart Breakall; inmate; William Gibson, inmate; Oda Hebel, inmate; Elvira Hutchison, inmate; Simon Lindamood, inmate; an inmate named Little; Ora Million, hospital inmate; Miss Ella Hildreth, housekeeper; Dr. Paul D. Espey, institution physician; James Nunn, inmate; William L. Osborn, inmate; Washington Battles, inmate; George J. Pressinger, inmate; James Thorpe, inmate; John Price, inmate; County Commissioner H. W. Eavey; Mrs. Lena Webb, of Dayton, daughter of Mrs. Crow, and former cook at the institution; Lansing Crow of Pittsburgh, Pa., son of Mr. Crow; Charles Crow, Cleveland, son of Mr. Crow.

Inmates testified mostly as to the grade of food served, declaring meat and vegetables used for food were spoiled and soured. Hutchison said inmates were served "sour milk," which, questioning developed, was skimmed milk. Breakall told the investigators the superintendent had slapped him and Battles told a similar story. Sons of Mr. Crow said they had visited at the institution and were given only a box of luncheon on leaving. Mrs. Webb said she had been given three dozen ears of corn on one occasion.

County Commissioner Eavey admitted on the stand that he had not heard complaints against Crow until after the primary election. He said that when Crow asked him what charges commissioners had against him at the time they reduced his pay, he replied that the commissioners did not want Crow at the institution.

The dead: Mrs. Lillian DeRuyser, 40. Thomas Oster, 48. Oscar J. Kalbfleisch, 30. All were of this city.

Miss Bertha McDowell, who was riding on the rear seat, escaped unhurt.

A westbound train had just passed the crossing when the eastbound train crashed into the car. The automobile was tossed against a telephone pole near

ELLINGSON MATRICIDE CASE IS FAULT OF SOCIETY NEW YORK WELFARE WORKER SAYS

New York, Jan. 16.—"The Dorothy Ellingson case is the worst I ever heard of—more shocking by far than any of the 30,000 I have handled."

That was the comment today of Miss Stella A. Miner, director of the Girl's Security League of America, and nationally known welfare worker, on the confession of Dorothy Ellingson, 16, of San Francisco, that she killed her mother to clear the way for her dance down the trail of jazz.

Miss Miner, who has come into contact with girls from every walk of life during seventeen years experience in welfare work, characterized the shooting as the act of a feeble minded, diseased moron.

BLAST AND FIRE WRECK VARNISH COMPANY PLANT

Lives of Firemen Are Impaired in Fighting $100,000 Blaze

Chicago, Jan. 16.—A terrific explosion, which killed at least two persons and injured more than 50, wrecked a two story warehouse of the L. Lewis Varnish Company here today and started a fire which threatened to engulf the whole plant of four buildings.

Two bodies were recovered a short time after the blast by firemen who fought their way through the flames as possible further explosions of oil and turpentine imperiled their lives. They were unable to say whether or not more victims were beyond their reach behind the curtain of fire.

Panic followed the blast as hundreds of employees, many of whom had just reported for work, battled each other for exits.

The warehouse contained large tanks of oil, turpentine, gasoline and alcohol. Several explosions followed the initial blast and the entire street in front of the burning building was turned into a river of flame.

The first explosion was caused by the detonation of a large gas tank which was being either loaded or unloaded from a truck. It blew out the entire front of the building. The driver of a truck, Harry Watson, is dead. His heavy truck was hurled across the street into a vacant lot. A watchman, Frank Cora, is the other victim found.

Hundreds of windows in other buildings and homes in the neighborhood were broken and sleepers were hurled from their beds.

The damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

EAGLES HAVE PROUD RECORD ORGANIZER TELLS CROWD HERE

The benefits and selling points of the Fraternal Order of Eagles were eulogized in the address of Judge Thomas O'Donnell, Kansas, Mo., before an open meeting held under the auspices of the Xenia Aerie of Eagles, Thursday night.

The jurist told of the growth of the order from a membership of 450,000 to one of nearly 600,000 within a short time. He spoke of the appeal of the order to working men in all branches of business life.

There are 1,700 Eagles Lodges or Aeries, scattered over the United States. The speaker named the benefits to be derived from membership in the order, and cited the war record of the lodge in the World War.

A concert by the Holton orchestra preceded the address. A good sized crowd of lodge members and their guests attended the meeting.

"Men who never had any inclination to join a lodge are finding reasons to join the F. O. E." the speaker said. "This wide appeal of the order has brought it about in some of the larger cities that whole communities have endorsed the order. Editors have commented on its work and the clergy has spoken for us."

The lodges are known among the members as Aeries, a term meaning Eagles' nest. The first Aerie was instituted in Seattle, Wash., in the winter of 1898. Since its organization twenty-seven years ago, there has been paid out in sick benefits to our members, $27,153,538, for funeral benefits $5,281,993 and for medical services, $8,610,727, a total of $41,046,259.

"Our campaign to secure justice for aged workers was begun three years ago when the Grand Aerie of the F. O. E. appointed a National Old Age Pension Commission and appropriated a permanent fund. Three states now have old age pension laws and the growth of the movement has fired the Eagles with new zeal."

"This is a patriotic order pledged to serve the community and the nation as well as itself. The Eagle and the Flag, are our symbols."

CARELESSNESS

John E. Daly, who addressed members of the Kiwanis Club on the subject of "Safety," alluded to the carelessness which costs human life, as a "demon."

Now then, there are fables that tell of ancient demons and the brave youth, who, dressed in armor, and equipped with a sword, went forth boldly and slew these demons that terrorized the human race. Thus they were eradicated.

Carelessness, though no less a demon, demands different though just as strenuous, methods. We are living through an era when human life is held too cheaply. Life, being the dwelling of the soul within the body, is a sacred thing and its preservation a holy and righteous practice.

The man who goes forth to slay the demon "Carelessness," should arm himself with these things: "Care and consideration for his own life and for the lives of others."

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

American citizenship means this: the opportunity to share in the most splendid adventure upon which any large segment of mankind has ever set forth—upon a continent rich in beauty and abundant in resources, to take unto itself men of every land and every creed, every race and every social stratum and with them and of them to build a nation and to create a people drawn onward by the dream of a government in which all shall share and under which all shall benefit according to their gifts, their wisdom and their courage; a nation, strong, just and chivalrous; a people, clean, generous, alert, granting to each the privilege of making his own life, or marring it, of bearing high responsibilities and therefore of growing, of developing within himself for the benefit of mankind that which differentiates him from all other creatures and which is, therefore, his holiest possession, his individuality; a people, hating shams, loving beauty and true mirth, knowing God and counting fellowship as the cornerstone of its national life. To have a part, to have even the smallest part, in such an adventure is to hold a birthright such as no prince has ever possessed and no child of man shall outdream except at the gates of heaven.—Hermann Hagedorn in the Kansas City Times.

DID YOU WONDER?

Thousands of people have wondered why slumber in a Pullman required by the rules to be taken head-forward. The same or other thousands cling to a quite natural supposition that feet-forward is the more normal style. Dr. Thomas R. Crowder, of the Pullman's department of sanitation and surgery steps to the front and dissipates a very general public mystification on the subject. It has been commonly supposed that some law of the heart action dictated the head-forward practice. On the other hand, many have been frightened at the likelihood of head contusions and broken necks in case of collisions while riding in that position. But Dr. Crowder says the heart has nothing to do with the case and that there is no rule about it. Anybody who wants to ride feet-forward can do so. The head is put forward for the simple reason that the draft and dust and cinders blow to the rear of a moving train, and the head is placed forward to avoid these things.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

WHERE SONGS COME FROM

Where do the songs come from, and how
Do the singers weave them for you
and me?
Some of them spring from the apple
bough
And some from the Land of the
Used to be,
And some of the lullabies, soft and
sweet
Come from the patter of little feet.
And tuning his ear for a melody,
The singer catches a faint low
strain
From a passing breeze or the summer
sea
Or a mother's smile or a sigh of
pain,
Or the joy of a child as he romps
along,
And thus is fashioned another song
Our songs have come from a falling
tear
From a rose still bright with the
morning dew,
From the battlefield and its days of
fear,
From the long lost joys and the
pleasures new,
From the cheerful health of the brave
and strong
From a mother's smile and the
kettle's song.
For the singer sees what we cannot see
And the singer hears what we cannot hear,
The low sweet strains of some melody
Fall on his spirit, distinct and clear,
And out of some trifling, passing thing
He catches a song for the world to sing.

Today's Talks

A FRIEND A YEAR

Any man would die very rich if he but secured one sterling friend a year.

For after all friends count most when the lengthening shadows approach. Just to have a happy hand full around means the world. I once read the story of a man who died without a single friend to mourn his passing. But he did have a faithful dog who mourned over the lifted mound of earth and finally died of a broken heart, faithful to the end.

A man who has since become famous, once told me that his New Year was exceptionally happy because he had found in me a new friend. That made me more happy than words and I have tried to merit that great honor.

If you do nothing greater this year than add one fine and understanding friend to your friendship list your year will not have been in vain.

If nations made friends of each other there would be no wars. Wars are always the result of misunderstandings.

There are always times when we must have someone to whom we can go to talk, to open our hearts to, to laugh or cry with.

Friendship is the noblest occupation in the world.

I believe they play a soft stringed

orchestra in Heaven every time a beautiful friendship is made here upon earth. A man without friends—what is he? A man without life in his soul.

You can't be exacting with a real friend. You have to let that friend run his freedom in his own way. But you must delight in that freedom.

We have to defend everything good and fine that we keep. It's so with a friend. If a friend is worth keeping, defend him under all circumstances and be glad of the chance.

It has been said before but it is worth repeating: If you want a friend you must first be a friend.

LEONARD RETIRES BECAUSE OF LOVE OF MOTHER HE SAYS

New York, Jan. 16.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion of the world, has quit the ring, he announced today. "Because his mother had begged him not to fight again."

"I am retiring from boxing for the love of my mother," Leonard said. Leonard became lightweight champion in 1917 when he beat Freddie Welch. He has been one of the most popular champions of all time.

Leonard is now appearing in vaudeville. Recently he became seriously ill, after collapsing on the stage, but recovered after remaining in bed at his home here for a week or ten days.

In announcing his retirement, Leonard said there was a time when he liked "the glory stuff"—when the people used to say—"there goes Benny Leonard, the champion."

"But," he went on, "I am not retiring for glory. I am retiring for the love of my mother who begged me not to fight again."

"I fought everybody the public demanded me to start. I beat them all in my class. Nobody can say Benny Leonard didn't give all the boys a chance at the title."

Leonard then related how his mother used to read of his fights, of his training, of stories that he had his teeth knocked out, his hands broken or had met with other injuries.

"Mother would sit crying and trembling, saying: 'My poor Benny,' continued the retiring champion.

"My fight with Tender in 1923 was to have been my last. My mother had been very ill. All of us were greatly worried over her condition. One day she called the family together. She made me promise I would never fight again. Then she said she would have nothing to worry about."

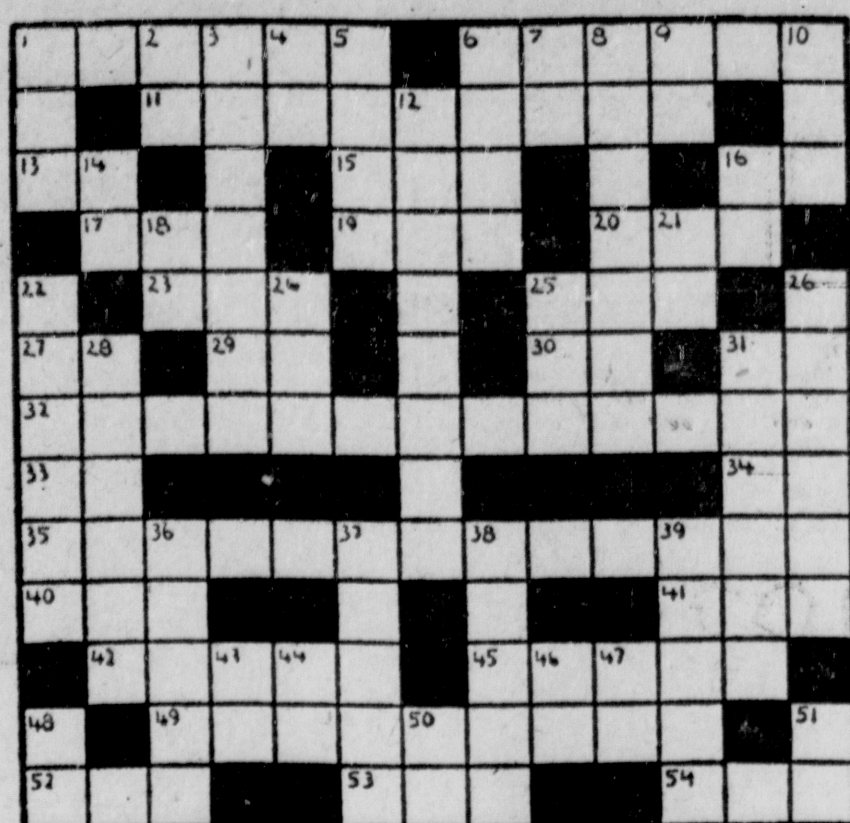

"So that's why I'm quitting now—for mother's sake."

OLD TIMER IS BACK

"My friends had all given up and never expected to see me around again. I had given up hoping myself, as no medicine touched my case. The doctors had tried everything. My food did not digest and filled me with gas. My brother in Philadelphia wrote me to try Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. The first dose gave me wonderful relief and I am now as well as I ever was and feel thirty years younger." It is a harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sayre & Hemphill and druggists everywhere.—Adv.

CARE OF BRUSHES

To clean brushes use benzine, gasoline or turpentine. Varnish and enamel brushes should be cleaned in turpentine, and shellac brushes in denatured alcohol. After the brushes have been well cleaned they should be washed in soft water and flaxseed oil with a cloth.

A dye always should be stained through muslin before it is added to water.

FARM BUREAU RE-ELECTS OFFICERS AT ANNUAL MEET; OPPOSE CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT; HEARS TALKS

Officers of the Greene County Farm Bureau were re-elected at the closing session of the annual meeting held in the assembly room of the Court House, Tuesday. They are: W. B. Bryson, president; George W. Glass, vice-president; W. W. Anderson, secretary; Herman Eavey, treasurer, who co-operate with committees and other officers appointed.

M. D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, scheduled to address the afternoon session, was forced to cancel his engagement at a late hour.

In his stead, E. C. Rector, Pickaway County, member of the executive board of the Ohio Federation and former state representative spoke.

Three primary objects to be used as a guide in work of Farm Bureaus, according to Mr. Rector, are: the upbuilding of the home and community life; lowering of the cost of producing farm products and lessening the cost of distribution of farm produce.

These problems confront all farmer organizations, the speaker said.

"The Farm Bureau is past the experimental stage, and it is up to every organization to show results by this time and not gain membership on promises," the speaker declared.

Mr. Rector praised co-operative marketing organizations and told of various farmer co-operative organizations which had been formed in his home county, and which are along a similar line to that found in Greene County. Benefits enjoyed by the members of the organization were named by the speaker.

"I agree with President Coolidge in his statement that no one can solve the difficulties of the farmers except the farmers themselves," Mr. Rector said.

Miss Adele Koch, home economics department, Ohio State University, gave the first address of the afternoon session, on "Home Agent Work." Her subject was of interest to the audience, since the home demonstration work has met with success in this county, as advanced by the local farm bureau.

Miss Ella Haas, welfare worker of Montgomery County gave a talk on "Rural Welfare Needs." She closed her talk with a plea to the farmers to not be "hoodwinked" by the manufacturers and others interested in defeating the Child Labor Amendment. She declared the action of the farm bodies in opposing the proposed amendment. The Greene County Farm Bureau has gone on record as opposing the Child Labor Amendment and a resolution presented at the meeting Thursday verified this statement.

The assembly hall was crowded for the afternoon session. The program included selections by a male quartette which appeared on the morning program and which was well received by the audience.

The reports of committees and a general discussion followed the regular program in the afternoon. The discussion centered on the resolutions presented at the meeting, including: opposing the Child Labor Amendment, favoring re-appraisal of property in Greene County and favoring a gasoline tax on all motor vehicles. All were passed. The sentiment concerning the employment of a home demonstration agent in this county was divided.

W. R. Lewis representative of the nineteenth district of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, composed of Greene, Montgomery, Fayette and Clinton Counties, on the state executive committee, attended the meeting.

The annual address of President W. B. Bryson, featured the morning session.

While our membership is not as large as during the former three-year period, yet the support and loyalty of our members has been all that could be asked and because of this, the year 1924 has been one of the best in the history of the organization," he declared.

"While the Farm Bureau has accomplished much in a local way, we believe there is a wonderful future for it through the state and national organization to do much that will be of benefit to the farmer. We feel that our national organization should take a decided stand on the matter of government ownership of railroads and no less a stand against tax free securities and the Child Labor Amendment, but do not feel so sure regarding the Muscle Shoals proposition."

Illustrating the growth of the Farm Bureau movement, Mr. Bryson said that sixteen states had paid more in to the national organization than ever before, during the last year.

Police Discover Germ Poison Conspiracy

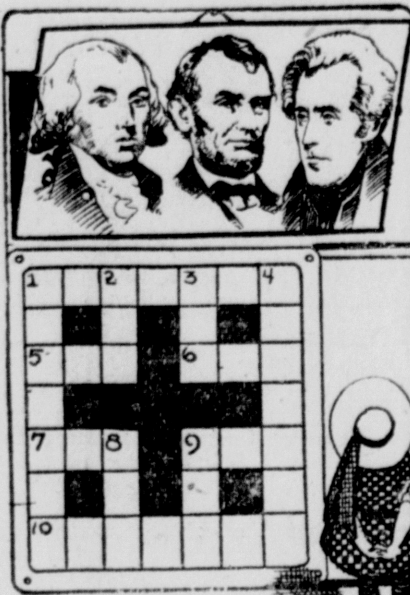

E. E. HODGSON

While investigating the attempted murder of prominent citizens of Redondo Beach, Cal., police unearthed an alleged plot by which a supposed fanatic, who signed notes to victims only as "The Alchemist," caused men to go blind and inoculated children of parents on his "revenge list" with white plague germs. E. E. Hodgson, Redondo Beach grocer, was stricken with blindness after a dispute with a man suspected in the case.

YESTERDAY'S JUNIOR PUZZLE ANSWER

Your Income Tax

There is no change in the exemption for single persons, which is $1,000. Married persons living together and heads of families are allowed by the revenue act of 1924 an exemption of $2,500, regardless of the amount of net income. Under the preceding act the exemption for married persons and heads of families was $2,500 if the aggregate net income was $5,000 or less and $2,000 if the net income exceeded $5,000. A husband and wife living together have but one personal exemption. If they make separate returns such exemption may be taken by either or divided between them.

The exemption of $2,500 is allowed married couples only if they live together. In the absence of continuous actual residence together, the exemption depends upon the character of the separation. The new regulations provide that if occasionally and temporarily a wife is away on a visit or a husband is away on business, the joint exemption is maintained, the full exemption is allowable. The unavoidable absence of a husband or wife at a sanitarium on account of illness does not preclude claiming the exemption. But if continuously and voluntarily the husband makes his residence at one place and the wife at another, they are not living together within the eyes of the income-tax law. Each must file a return if his or her income was $1,000 or more, and each is allowed only the $1,000 exemption granted a single person.

No change is made in the provision allowing the taxpayer, in addition to a personal exemption a credit of $100 for each person depending upon him or her and receiving chief support, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. The term "mentally or physically defective" includes not only cripples and those mentally defective, but persons in ill health and the aged. The $100 credit does not apply to the wife or husband of a taxpayer, though one may be totally dependent upon the other.

Mayor Outwits Holdup-man in Own Home

DR. BENJAMIN CRITCHLOW

Dr. Benjamin Critchlow, Hollywood, Cal., chiropractor, has confessed to police that he held up Mayor Cramer, of Los Angeles, in the executive's home in an effort to obtain $500. Critchlow gained entry by making an appointment upon the representation that he was a secret service officer, with information which the Mayor should have. For three hours he threatened the Mayor, police allege, while the latter talked soothingly to him and convinced him finally that the money could not be obtained at that time of the night. Critchlow's arrest came the following day.

COMMISSIONERS IN RESTAURANT TRADE COATS DESPITE SIZE

J. Harve Lackey, Ross Township farmer and cattle breeder, and new Greene County Commissioner, is large and brawny.

Bert Beam, Spring Valley Township farmer, and also a new County Commissioner, is small and Napoleonesque, if such a word may be coined.

Wednesday the new commissioners ate lunch together at a local restaurant. Arising after the meal each put on the other's overcoat. Now then the overcoat of Mr. Beam proved a bit skimpy on the ample form of Mr. Lackey, while Mr. Lackey's coat fit Mr. Beam like a tent.

Yet so intent were the new office holders on their thought, that both proceeded from restaurant without either noticing the exchange of habiliment. Eventually however, Mr. Lackey began to find his usual free movement rather confined in the too-small coat, while Mr. Beam, lagged behind as he perspired under the unusually heavy load of the too-large coat.

"I have on somebody else's coat," Mr. Beam finally announced, chagrined at the discovery. "So have I," said Mr. Lackey.

So they exchanged coats.

BRINGING UP FATHER

By GEORGE McMANUS

The Husband Tamer by VIOLET DARE

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S HAPPENED

PATRICIA CLEVE protests to her husband.

ANDREW CLEVE, a young lawyer, that he has made her a tamer of other women's husbands, forcing her to do so much entertaining of his clients that he sacrifices her to his business. She goes on a visit to her sister.

CAROL WILLOUGHBY, who with her husband.

KEITH WILLOUGHBY, lives in a country club colony near Chicago. But Keith, like Andrew, seeks to use Patricia's charm as an asset, trying to persuade her to intercede in his behalf with

GREGORY HEWITT, a famous financier, whom she has met through Andrew. Patricia is disturbed by Keith's attentions to ISOBEL DRAKE, the country club widow. Finding that she can come between them by yielding to Keith's urging that she invite Hewitt to dinner, she does so, reluctantly, as Hewitt has avowed his love for her. She plans to return home, but receives word from Andrew that he is going abroad at once. To please Patricia, Hewitt promises to build the railroad Keith is interested in, and arranges a western trip for the Willoughbys, Patricia and himself.

TODAY'S INSTALLMENT

XXXVI—HEWITT LOOKS AHEAD

"PATRICIA, are you going to marry Gregory Hewitt?" demanded Carol of her sister. They were sitting in the tent which they shared; Hewitt and Keith, who were eager to look over the proposed route for the railroad, shared an adjoining tent, and the cook, guides and other men slept rolled in blankets around the campfires.

VIOLET DARE "You seem to forget that he's already married," Patricia reminded her.

"No, but you seem to," Carol answered. Then, as her sister turned on her angrily, "Oh, don't be hurt, Patricia; you haven't done anything the least bit wrong. But anyone could see how he cares for you. That's been evident from the very first. And a man with as much influence as Gregory Hewitt has can do just about whatever he wants to, these days. Of course I don't know how you feel about Andrew—"

Patricia rose abruptly and left the tent. She didn't know herself, these days, just how she felt about Andrew.

She was an attractive little figure in her riding breeches, soft shirt, and high boots of tan leather that matched the breeches. She had had her hair bobbed before leaving Chicago, and it lay close to her head, making her look very boyish.

Hewitt was standing beside a table in the door of his tent, looking through some papers. His eyes followed her as she walked along, hands thrust into her pockets, starting at the ground.

But he made no effort to follow her. Instead, he took out a letter that had been given him a few moments before, and read it. It was on the heavily monogrammed stationery that his wife affected.

"Of course I can see through this divorce plan," she had written. "You want to be free so that you can marry that Cleve woman. You say that you have always known that I did not care for you; that I married you merely to get away from home."

"But no matter why I married you, you are my husband, and you can't get away from that fact. I see no reason why I should divorce you so that you can marry this younger woman with whom you are temporarily infatuated."

Hewitt's mouth set grimly. Men had never yet been able to vanquish him; certainly this nervous, hysterical woman could not do so! Money had always talked most eloquently to her; no matter how much she had, she wanted more. He rather enjoyed the prospect of the fray. "This younger woman with whom you are temporarily infatuated." He smiled as he recalled the words. To call such a love as his for Patricia infatuation!

His mind swept back over his married life. Older than he by five years, his wife had even as a young woman been petulant, quarrelsome, exacting. There had been none of the happy home life to which he had looked forward. And from the first there had been no hope of having children. He had wanted sons who would carry on the tremendous task that he had brought so near completion, daughters who would play about the big, overdecorated houses that were his homes, in town and country.

And now, here was Patricia, young, lovely, eager for life that would really be living. He did not flatter himself that she loved him; he estimated her loyalty to her husband correctly. But he did not believe that she loved her husband.

either. He read the situation between her and Andrew more accurately than she would have thought possible.

He went into the tent and wrote to his wife again, offering to make a definite bargain with her. Two million dollars for his freedom, which, with the jewels which she had and the town house, which was in her name, would certainly more than compensate her for his unwilling companionship, he told her.

"I shall probably travel extensively during the next few years," he wrote her. "You have always hated travel. If you accept this offer of mine, you will be able to do as you like for the rest of your life. I stipulate only that you get a divorce at once, either in Mexico or in Paris, preferable the former, since it can be obtained there more quickly. Mental cruelty or my refusal to live with you will be adequate grounds. Will you let me have your reply at once?"

He sent the letter to the nearest town by a special messenger, and gave himself over to the unaccustomed luxury of day dreaming. He had never been in love before as he loved Patricia. For the first time in his life he began to feel that his years of relentlessly hard work had in every sense been "worth while."

Patricia was coming back, sauntering along slowly, whistling softly to herself. His eyes dwelt on her caressingly, noting the easy grace of her movements, the proud carriage of her head. There had been talk not long before of giving him a diplomatic post of the first importance. What a diplomat's wife she would make! How capably and graciously she would entertain for him!

TRIES AIR TRIP TO RESTORE HEARING

Joseph Kling, deaf for nineteen years after an attack of scarlet fever, tried a novel means of restoring his hearing at Mitchell Field, Mineola, N. Y. He persuaded an army pilot to take him aloft in an airplane and dive suddenly. The test was made, but no change in Kling's condition was noted.
